

SPEAK

The Voice for the Animals

REMEMBER GEORGE

Kidnapped... Imprisoned... Blinded... Killed by Oxford University

George was a wild-caught macaque monkey. Wrenched from his home, he was transported to Oxford University where he was forced to endure the most extreme brutality and suffering. The professor (who had been investigated by police in November 2005 for cruelty to a monkey on whom he was experimenting) named him 'George' and abused him for years before he finally killed him.

George was blinded by Oxford University, he died alone, afraid and imprisoned in a barren cage hardly big enough for him to stand up in, denied the freedom into which he was born. George can't be brought back, nor can we take away the suffering he experienced imprisoned inside Oxford University, but what we can and MUST do is to stop countless others suffering his fate.

Say NO to the Oxford Lab. Say YES to a science based on compassion and a science that actually works.

STOP THE OXFORD ANIMAL LAB

PO Box 6712, Northampton NN2 6XR Tel: 0845 330 7985 www.speakcampaigns.org.uk Email: info@speackampaigns.org.uk